

Why do people choose to join the Hart board?

‘To give back to farming but also to broaden networks with like-minded, passionate people involved in improving agriculture.’

‘The time was right to contribute something back to the industry rather than just being on the receiving end of Hart’s field days and information sessions.’

‘A way to give back to the industry that has provided a career and also as a way to share expertise.’

‘To get involved with a pro-active group that could have a direct and positive impact for growers.’

‘To give back to the farming community and help continue the strong traditions established by the Hart group.’

‘A great way to develop personal and organisational development and give a little back to the farming community.’

‘To learn more about the technical side of crop production and the latest agronomy research.’

‘Combining passion for agriculture with the opportunity to work with a group of like-minded people across a broad range of expertise.’

‘To give back to the industry that has given so much personally and to stay connected with rural communities.’

Enquiries welcome:

Ryan Wood | chair@hartfieldsite.org.au | 0439 563 833

Sandy Kimber | admin@hartfieldsite.org.au | 0427 423 154

www.hartfieldsite.org.au